

STRIKERS DID MUCH VIOLENCE

City Of Cleveland In The Power Of The Street Car Strikers And Sympathizers Today.

TRY TO TEAR UP THE CAR TRACKS

On Some Lines No Cars Were Run, While On Others They Went Out, But The Crews Were Very Roughly Handled By Mob.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Cleveland, O., May 16.—Cleveland is today in the midst of the promised street car employees' strike and all transportation is practically at a standstill as far as the electric cars go.
Was Unanimous.
The strike came as the result of the almost unanimous vote of the local union of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees which was made public today.
The Grievances.
The strike is the result of the failure of the Municipal Traction Company, lessor of the Consolidated City Lines and their employees to reach an agreement over wages and other alleged grievances. On many lines no attempt was made to run cars early today although later occasional cars were manned by strike-breakers and sent out from the yards only to be greeted by howls from the mob.
Some Violence.
The first cars out were looted at and later the crowds of many were roughly handled by the strikers and their sympathizers. The police were kept busy dispersing the crowds all morning.
Tear Up Tracks.
Armed with crowbars and other tools, a mob of the strike sympathizers attempted to tear up the car tracks on St. Clair avenue but were dispersed by the police before much damage was done.
Dragged From Cars.
The crowd of the St. Clair street cars were also dragged from them as soon as they appeared. The conductor was badly beaten and the motorman roughly handled. Both were rescued by the police.

It is said that property owners are already organizing sufficiently to assure the dredging of the passageway from Waubesa down to Kegonsa and to Stoughton and then it will remain only to carry the work down the Catfish creek to Rock river to complete a launch route between Madison to Janesville or Lake Koshongong. It is doubtful if this large plan will be consummated for several years, but it is believed that it is sure to be accomplished in time.

THE NORWEGIANS' INDEPENDENCE DAY

Are Rounding up in Minneapolis Today For a Monster Celebration.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—Sons and daughters of Norway who have found new homes in the Northwest are rounding up in Minneapolis today for a monster celebration of the independence day of their native land. The observance of the anniversary has of late years become an established custom in the Norwegian settlements of Minnesota, Iowa and the Dakotas, but the celebration this year is to surpass all of those that have gone before.
The celebration opens in the Auditorium tonight with a festival under the auspices of the Sons of Norway, at which the speakers will be Otto Gude, Norway's minister to the United States, Oscar M. Torshov, a leading attorney of Chicago, and Slaver Serningard, the blind orator of North Dakota.
Tomorrow will be the big day of the celebration, in memory of Henrik Wergeland, the Norwegian poet and patriot, who secured the recognition of May 17 as a national holiday in Norway, an interesting program of exercises will be carried out in the Auditorium tomorrow afternoon. The feature of the exercises will be the presentation of a statue of Wergeland, a gift from the Norwegian Parliament of Norway.
The presentation will be made by Bishop Lauri, primate of the Church of Norway and former secretary to the late King Oscar. The statue is the work of Gustav Vigeland, the foremost sculptor in Norway. The statue will ultimately be placed in a public park at Fort Abercrombie, N. D., one of the earliest Norwegian settlements in the Northwest.

ALTERNATES ARE CHOSEN QUIETLY

REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE IGNORED STATE. ANNOUNCE MANY SURPRISES.
Men Named as Alternates to the Big Chicago Gathering Chosen Yesterday.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., May 16.—Certain evidences of internal strife which developed at the session of the republican state central committee in this city yesterday showed that the plan of the La Follette men to control the state central committee and the selection of the alternates to the Chicago convention, was bitterly opposed. While no open rupture came, several of the La Follette state alternates were defeated and others put in their places.
The meeting was held to appoint the alternates to the convention for the men who were the regularly elected delegates. Among the members of the La Follette state that were turned down were W. J. McElroy, George Borchgrevink and W. H. Braddock. Henry Cochems of Milwaukee was also to have been defeated for alternate in the fifth congressional district, but managed to creep through with a small margin. The alternates chosen were as follows:
For state-at-large—Dr. J. M. Duffell, Milwaukee; J. P. Dunsman, De Pere; Irvine L. Leinrodt, Superior; Philip Allen, Mineral Point.
For the districts—First—C. J. Goff, Elkhorn; Burr Sprague, Broadhead.
Second—Dr. H. E. Wright, Columbus; Dr. Whist, Watertown.
Third—James A. Stone, Reedsburg; W. E. Williams, Dodgeville.
Fourth—C. A. A. McGee, Milwaukee; J. P. Merrill, West Allis.
Fifth—Henry F. Cochems, Richard J. White, Milwaukee.
Sixth—K. P. Hubbard, Ripon; M. E. Williams, Fox Lake.
Seventh—Charles MacArthur, Eau Claire; H. L. Elton, Whitehall.
Eighth—H. J. Severens, Iowa; Florian Lampert, Oshkosh.
Ninth—George W. Wing, Kaukauna; George Boyer, Oconto.
Tenth—Theodore W. Bruzau, Grand Rapids; E. J. Ousted, Wittenberg.
Eleventh—L. N. Clausen, Washburn; H. S. Comstock, Cumberland.
In the tenth district, where Mr. Alexander is the Taft delegate, Theodore W. Bruzau of Grand Rapids, who was Mr. Alexander's running mate on the Taft ticket, was named as alternate and E. J. Ousted, who was defeated by Mr. Alexander, was named the other La Follette alternate.
This afternoon's issue of the Daily News even goes further and says that a defeat which would have caused the greatest sensation, was however concealed by the non-presentation of a set of resolutions which the La Follette managers brought to this city but failed to present to the committee when they discovered that the tenor of the feelings of the members was opposed to La Follette dictation.
Only the members of the innermost circles were aware of the exact character of the resolutions, the copies of which were carefully concealed after it was discovered the sentiment of the majority of the committee was such that they were likely to fail.
It is surmised, however, from the character of the talk of the La Follette leaders who still hope that something will happen in the republican national convention to prevent the nomination of Secretary of War Taft and thus give Robert M. La Follette an opportunity to renew his presidential campaign in 1912. That the resolutions cited the conditions in the country as demanding the renomination of the republican ticket of President Theodore Roosevelt. This of course is mere conjecture, as no one knows what the resolutions really contained.
The La Follette leaders after hearing the way the State Central Committee was slaughtering the state for alternates which had been presented by the La Follette managers as the suggestions of the delegates for their alternates considered it unwise to force any issue of the subject of resolutions and none were presented to the committee session.

E. M. HYZER APPEARS BEFORE COMMISSION

Is Leading Railroad Fight Against Orders of the Rate Commission.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., May 16.—Edward M. Hyzer of Milwaukee, for many years one of the leading attorneys of Janesville, is leading the fight which the railroads are making to test the validity of the orders of the Wisconsin railroad rate commission, which case is now being argued in the supreme court here. The test case developed out of an order by the commission requiring the "Soo" road to establish a station at Dwight, a matter of realty no consequence, but the issues raised in this case are of momentous importance, involving the constitutionality of the Wisconsin commission law. Mr. Hyzer opened the arguments for the railroads yesterday. He made a convincing argument to the effect that the theory of the authority of the railroad commission was that its orders were of the same force and effect as if made directly by the legislature, and that therefore the legislature, when it established the commission, enacted an infinite number and variety of rates and orders, potentially at least, rates which the legislature never dreamed of, which were to be worked out subsequently by the commission, and which the legislature could not have worked out if it tried. This theory, the only one upon which the commission's authority could stand, he declared to be repugnant to the spirit of our government. He was followed by C. H. Van Alstine of the Milwaukee road and A. H. Bright of the "Soo" road will complete the argument for the railroads. The commission is being defended by Attorney General F. L. Gilbert, Deputy Attorney General Russell Jackson and H. L. Butler of Madison, as special assistant. The arguments will scarcely be completed today.

REPUBLICAN DELEGATES ALL ELECTED BY TODAY

Nine Hundred And Ninety-Two Will Gather In Chicago Next Month.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Ill., May 16.—Nine hundred and ninety-two delegates, which will be increased to an even thousand if Arizona and New Mexico succeed in their demand for six instead of two delegates each, will assemble in the Coliseum in this city one month from today to name a candidate to run as the republican party's choice for President of the United States. The final list, for choosing these delegates expired today.
These delegates represent the republican voters of forty-six states, two Territories, Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands. Each delegate to the national convention represents a section of the country peopled by approximately 80,000 people, of whom at least 15,000 are male adults of the voting age. So the whole convention represents the republican party of approximately 16,000,000 voters, or 80,000,000 people.
The convention meets to pick out a man who will represent the ideas of the republican voters as to necessary qualifications for a President of the United States and to vote the ideas of the party as to general policies which should be followed by the chief executive for the four years succeeding March 4, 1909. The delegates will vote these policies in a series of resolutions, which, taken together, is popularly called a "platform." They are also to choose a candidate for Vice President to serve in case of the death or inability of the President.
Theoretically the choice of the nominees and the framing of the platform are matters which the delegates take up as quite fresh subjects, and upon which they have varying opinions, but practically, and as a result of widespread discussion in the daily press and elsewhere, there are always of late years some well settled ideas on the subjects of candidates and issues, and a certain unanimity on many matters from the outset. This will not hold good in the coming convention to such an extent, however, as in the conventions of 1900 and 1904, when the standard bearers were decided upon in advance.
The convention next month will be in session four days and possibly longer. The program to be followed on the opening day has been arranged almost to the last detail. It will proceed about like this:
The delegates will assemble in the Coliseum at noon on Tuesday, June 16. They will be called by order by Harry New, chairman of the national committee. Secretary Elmer Boyer will read the official call. Mr. Boyer will make a brief address, presenting to the convention Senator Dilliver, Senator Beveridge, or whoever may be decided upon in advance for temporary chairman. The chief duty of the temporary chairman will be to deliver a speech, which will be what is popularly termed a "key-note" speech. This speech, which will be carefully revised beforehand by the party leaders, will occupy about an hour in its delivery and will later form an important part of the campaign literature and be published in the official party publication.
The temporary chairman will call upon the different state delegations and ask each to send to the platform the selections made by the delegation for membership on the committee on resolutions, credentials and permanent organization and order of business. Also each delegation will send up the names of its selection of a member to act as the state's representative on the national committee, on the committee to notify the candidates who shall be chosen, and of some member to serve as honorary vice-president of the convention, one from each state.
When the committee on credentials, platform and order of business have been named they will retire and proceed to draw up their reports. If necessary they will work all night in order to be able to report to the convention when it meets the following day.
Wednesday the convention will again be called to order by the temporary chairman, who will receive the reports from the several committees, and these reports having been adopted, a committee will be named to elect to the chair the permanent chairman chosen by the committee on organization. The permanent chairman will then deliver a speech similar in character to that of the temporary chairman, dealing with the issue of the campaign. This speech will also be carefully prepared in advance, and will also form a part of his campaign literature.
Then will come the report of the committee on resolutions, which will be adopted with cheers. It is generally understood that Senator Lodge of Massachusetts will be named as chairman of the resolutions committee. The resolutions will discuss trust, labor, finance, immigration, the tariff and other subjects. The utterance on the subject of tariff reform will be the one which will be given the most serious consideration by the party leaders. The adoption of the platform will end the second day's session.
It is the plan to work in a few good-natured partisan speeches, either on the first or second day of the convention, merely by way of diversion, and the proceedings may be lengthened somewhat for this purpose. On Thursday the work of selecting the candidate for President will begin. This feature will bring forth a liberal display of oratory. The roll of states will be called alphabetically and each state will be asked if it has a candidate to present. There will be none until Illinois is reached, when the name of Speaker Cannon will be presented. There will be a principal nomination speech and this will be followed by several seconding speeches. The next state called will be Indiana, whereupon Governor Hanly of that state is expected to name Charles W. Fairbanks for the nomination. Ohio will present the name of Taft, Pennsylvania will offer Senator Knox and Wisconsin will present Senator La Follette. That is, if none of these candidates withdraw from the contest on the evening of the convention. New York, which will be nominally stranger in the convention than any other state, will present the name of Governor Hughes.
Up to this point the proceedings of the convention will be according to established routine. After the favorite sons have been presented the subsequent developments will depend upon circumstances. The delegates will deliberate, caucus and ballot. Whether one or two ballots or a great number will be necessary to settle the contest cannot now be foretold with certainty.
The same line of procedure will be followed in choosing the candidate for second place on the ticket as in the case of the nomination for the presidency, but it is not likely that nearly so much interest will be taken in this part of the program. The selection of a Vice-presidential candidate will depend upon who is selected for the head of the ticket. If Taft or Fairbanks gets the presidential nomination it is likely that an Eastern man will be named as running mate. On the other hand, should the nomination for the head of the ticket go to Hughes or Knox, a man from the Middle West would probably be chosen for the Vice-presidential nomination.

FIND DEATH WAS BY ILLEGAL OPERATION

Coroner's Jury in Beloit Says Mrs. Rose Watts Came to Her Death by Unlawful Means.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Beloit, Wis., May 16.—Mrs. Rose Watts, the Woodstock, Illinois, bride of four months, did not die from pneumonia as announced at the time of her death on Wednesday, but as a result of an illegal operation performed by parties unknown to the coroner's jury which sat on the case today. The doctor who attended her at the time of her death is held blameless of any participation in the crime and on the testimony of two other physicians, one of whom testified she came to him asking for such an operation, found that she died from blood-poisoning which set in following the unskilled manner in which she had been handled. The jury is still investigating the case in hopes of tracing down the culprit. Mrs. Watts came to Beloit last Sunday from Woodstock and died at the home of Mrs. Fred Haltinger, where she was visiting. The inquest was ordered by District Attorney Fisher, who was notified that there was suspicious circumstances connected with the woman's death, and stopped its shipment to Woodstock on Thursday.

TO DRAIN MARSH DURING THE YEAR

LOWLANDS IN UNION, PORTER AND CENTER TO BE RECLAIMED.

PLANS HAVE BEEN MADE

Will Take a Year to Completely Reclaim the District—Much Valuable Land.

According to the Evansville Review it is an almost conclusive fact that the owners of really along the marshy lands of Union, Porter and Center, are determined to have it reclaimed and made fit for another year's crops.

The land in question is proposed to drain and reclaim by a drainage ditch, which will have its head in the center of section thirty-six town of Union, on what is known as the Berkhart and Elmer land. From this starting point the ditch will run east by south to the north line of section six town of Center, thence south one and one-half miles, thence east and southeast to east line of Center, thence east three-fourths of a mile to the town of Janesville where it will empty into the Rock river.

The ditch will be four feet wide at bottom, eight feet wide at the top, from seven to eight and one-half feet deep, and in the entire distance of twelve miles a fall of twenty-eight feet will be made. With a ditch of this width, depth and fall, it is thought by experts in this line of work, sufficient to drain a large acreage of what is now waste land devoted chiefly to the raising of bullfrogs, muskrats and bogs. The reclaiming of this land, which at present is valued at from forty dollars per acre down, will increase in value fifty, if not more per acre. For many kinds of crops, the richness of the soil will make rich returns to the owners.

T. S. Armstrong, the civil engineer on this opening of the land, is an expert in this particular line of drainage, and he is already on the ground with the board of commissioners, Warren Andrew, Eli Crall and L. E. Horn, and are laying out the proposed route of the ditch, and getting the blue prints in readiness for this on the digging of the ditch. It is expected that the preliminary work will be sufficiently advanced this spring so as to enable the contractors to commence work digging some time during the summer. It will take a year to do the work, by working two shifts every twenty-four hours.

The excavating of the ditch will be done by what is known as the dipper dredge, which floats down the ditch as dug, and the boarding house for the laborers will follow the dredge. The farmers along the proposed route are extremely anxious to have the work commenced as soon as possible, so that the ground will be in readiness for a crop next year.

By the way there is an old tradition handed down by some of our early pioneers, who state that they distinctly remember some of the Indians telling how in the time of their infancy, this land was a big marsh and during a heavy freshet in the spring time the lake was drained into the Rock river. There is good reason to believe such a statement, but it now rests with the progressive farmer to reclaim it for productive purposes.

GOING TO CINCINNATI TO ATTEND ANNUAL DRAWING

Manager Clarence Burdick's Firm's Unique Way of Apportioning Its Shows.

Clarence Burdick leaves this week for Cincinnati where he will attend the annual drawing for shows held by the Columbia Amusement Company. This system has been in vogue for several years and consists of all the names of the forty shows controlled by the Columbia company being placed in a lottery wheel and drawn out one at a time. The company has forty theatres which are numbered one to forty and as the show drawn out is one, two or three, it opens at one, two or three city. Mr. Burdick may be sent to New York to manage the New York house of the company and has been called in for a special conference with the management ahead of the annual drawing.

MANY WILL WITNESS ALGONQUIN CONTEST

Big Automobile Hill-Climbing Test to Be Held Today at Illinois City.

Algonquin will be the scene of all eyes in the motor world today. Eighty machines are scheduled to mount the two hills in the eleven events arranged by the Chicago Motor club and there is much speculation as to the outcome. Judging from the practice sports yesterday the time registered last year will be broken.

as the accents are in much better condition at present than ever and the chances of cars entered also excel.

Contestants in today's events, who did not make the trip from Chicago yesterday and camped on the ground last night, left Chicago early this morning and with contestants and spectators several hundred machines assembled in and about the little village today.

Chairman Root of the contest committee of the motor club reported last night that they were just enough men yesterday to dry up the roads and the going will not be as heavy as anticipated. The worst conditions to be encountered will be west of Elgin, as the roads from Chicago to the latter city are mostly macadam.

BAND BOYS TALK OF AN AMUSEMENT PARK

May Secure Tract of Land Near the City to Give Their Concerts in This Summer.

There is a project on foot by members of the Imperial band, to rent a tract of land adjacent to the city and on the car line, for a pleasure park. A bandstand would be erected and the weekly concerts of the band, formerly held in the Court House park, would be held here. Mr. Knott, in speaking of the idea, said: "I do not think there will be any of the regular concerts in the Court House park this summer. It is pretty hard work to go around and collect for them and then there is trouble about a bandstand and such things to be attended to. There is a plan under way which may result in the band taking a park site near the car line for park purposes of their own, erecting a bandstand and holding our weekly concerts there. It would also be a place where picnics could be held. There would be benches and tables and the privileges for soft drinks, popcorn and peanuts would help defray the expenses. It is hard work to keep the band together when you have to assess each member every month to meet running expenses and we must do something of this kind or see the band give up." Many businessmen have talked of raising a stadium, by subscription, with a view of making the concerts in the court-house park a fixed affair, but thus far nothing more than talk has resulted.

NEARING THE CLOSE OF BUYING SEASON

Tobacco Growers Have Entirely Disposed of the Crops to Purchasers.

According to the Elberton Tobacco Reporter, the buying movement is steadily coming to a close. Buyers are yet out gathering in the scattering remnants and probably will continue in the field until the crop is lifted, but only a small fraction remains unsold and the volume of transactions of the week have materially declined over the previous ones. Prices show but little change; except for some of the better lots of assorted goods, the figures are still low. The following recent sales show the range taken:

J. Strand, 10a at 3c west.
A. Ashburnson, 7a at 3 1/2c west.
C. Lindberg, 6a at 3 1/2c west.

Deliveries continue to come in quite freely at receiving points, but the warehouse handling is proceeding slowly because of the scarcity of help. A few concerns have finished the season's packing, which will relieve the situation somewhat, but warehouse handling will be prolonged well into the summer months.

Aside from a stronger inquiry packers report but little improvement in the cured leaf market. Sales are still confined to small lots to meet urgent needs of manufacturers.

The plant beds are reported to be coming forward quite satisfactory despite the cool wet weather.

The shipments out of storage reach 1284 cases for the week to all points from this market. Receipts from outside points are 65 carloads for handling here.

The prevailing complaint of growers regarding the low prices of tobacco this season has prompted the buyers as to where the blame lies. It cannot be charged that those growers who were not adverse to putting labor to their crop in preparing it to cure, pack and hold it if necessary have been able to obtain reasonably fair figures for their tobacco. One reason why so many growers of the crop was disposed of at bargain prices was that growers held their tobacco in bundle until well into

METHODISTS SEE THE PRESIDENT

CHURCHMEN ARE ADDRESSED BY THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE.

TRIBUTE TO THEIR WORK

Mr. Roosevelt Talks to Them of Duties of Good Citizens and Especially of the Women.

Washington, May 16.—Many scores of Methodists who have been attending the general conference of their church in Baltimore this week came to Washington Saturday to see the nation's capital and to pay their respects to the president.

Mr. Roosevelt received them with cordiality and delivered a graceful and earnest address that pleased them highly. After paying a warm tribute to the work of the Methodist church in America in the past, he spoke of the task it has to perform in the present, and continued:

America's Bright Future.
"No nation in the world has more right than ours to look with proud confidence toward the future. No where else has the experiment of democratic government, of government by the people and for the people, of government based on the principle of treating each man on his innate worth as a man, been tried on so vast a scale as with us; and on the whole the experiment has been more successful than anywhere else. Moreover, on the whole, I think it can be said that we have grown better and not worse; for if there is much evil, good also greatly abounds, and if wrong grows, so in even greater measure grows the stern sense of right before which wrong must eventually yield.

"It would be both unmanly and unwarranted to become faint-hearted or despairing about the nation's future. Clear-eyed and far-sighted men who are both brave of heart and cool of head, while not for a moment refusing to see and acknowledge the many evils around us, must yet also feel a confident assurance that in the struggle we shall win and not lose, that the century that has just opened will see great triumph for our people.

Must Combat Evil.

"But the surest way to achieve this triumph is, while never losing hope and belief in our progress, yet at the same time to refuse to blind ourselves to what is evil in the complex play of the many forces, working through, and with, and against one another, in the upbuilding of our social structure. There is much that tends toward evil as well as much that tends toward good; and the true patriot is that man who, without losing faith in the good, does his best to combat the evil, to stamp it out where that is possible, and at least to minimize its results.

"We need good laws; we need to have these laws honestly and fearlessly administered; we need wealth; we need science and art and all the kindred activities that spring from the clever brain and the deft hand. But most of all we need the essential qualities that in their sum make up the good man and the good woman; most of all we need that fine and healthy family life the lack of which makes any seeming material prosperity but a glittering sham.

Duty of Our Women.

"If the average man is brave and hardworking and clean-living, if the average woman has the qualities which make a good wife and good mother, if each has self-respect, and if each realizes that the greatest thing in life is the chance to do service—why, then the future of the nation is secure. We must condemn the man who fails to do his duty by the public, who is a bad neighbor, an idler, an inconsiderate and selfish husband, a neglectful father. So also we must condemn the woman who, whether from cowardice or coldness, from selfish love of ease or from lack of all true womanly quality, refuses to do right, her great and all-important duties of wifehood and motherhood. We admire a good man; but we admire a good woman more. We believe in her more. All honor is due the man who does his full duty in war; but even more honor is due the mother; for the birth pangs make all men the debtors of all women. No human being has a greater title to respect than the mother who does her full duty, who bears and rears plenty of healthy children, so that there shall be national growth and not national decadence, so that in quality and in quantity our people shall increase."

Resist Freight Rate Increase.

Chicago, May 16.—Delegates from 50 commercial organizations, representing most of the trade interests of the east and middle west of this country, Friday in conference at the Congress hotel took decisive action to prevent the proposed increase in freight rates by the railroads east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio river. As a result of the day's work the leaders among the business men feel that the move of the railroads to saddle an additional $100,000,000 in freight charges on the shippers of the territory described has been checked.

French Killed by Arabs.

Algiers, May 16.—The French force under Gen. Viny lost 13 men killed and 65 wounded during a fierce engagement Thursday with the fanatical Arabs. Three officers are among the French killed. The Arab losses are described as heavy.

MRS. EMILY WOODLEY DIES.

Famous Army Nurse Whom President Lincoln Made Captain.

Philadelphia, May 16.—Mrs. Emily W. Woodley, who had the distinction, it is said, of being the only woman ever regularly commissioned an officer in the United States army, and the last of 35 young women from this city who enlisted as nurses in the civil war, died at her home here Friday, aged 73 years.

Mrs. Woodley was president of the National Association of Army Nurses of the civil war, which she organized, and the only woman member of the Grand Army of the Republic. She was a widow, Mrs. Wilson, 26 years of age, when she enlisted in 1861. For her bravery and heroic service President Lincoln personally conferred upon her a commission of captain in the army. She was also decorated with a gold medal by Secretary of War Stanton.

TEXAS REPUBLICANS SPLIT.

One Convention Indorses Taft, the Other Favors Fairbanks.

Fort Worth, Tex., May 16.—The regular state Republican convention met here Friday with representatives present from 240 counties. Before the convention could organize, Messrs. Harris of San Antonio and Delegate Barker of Lamar county organized a bolt and about 400 delegates withdrew. The bolt was in the interest of Vice-President Fairbanks and the bolters will send a full contesting delegation to Chicago. The delegates who go instructed. The regular convention indorsed President Roosevelt and instructed its delegates for Secretary Taft.

Many Sea Sailors Rescued.

New York, May 16.—Hundreds of dwellers along the New Jersey beach witnessed Friday the rescue by life-savers of the captain and crew of four men from the three-masted schooner William McGee, sighted off Sea Isle City water-logged and flying signals of distress. The sea was so rough that the life-savers were for a time unable to launch their boat.

Girl Killed by Playmate.

East Chicago, Wis., May 16.—Gertrude, 13-year-old daughter of Ormel Knapp of Brunswick, was accidentally shot and killed Friday by Henry Drogo, a playmate.

"SWEATBOX" IS SUSTAINED.

Indiana Supreme Court Upholds the Police Institution.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 16.—The supreme court Friday decided that the statements of a person under arrest, made while being "sweated" in the private office of a chief of police, were admissible.

The decision was in the case of Charles Laughlin, who was arrested and taken to Fort Wayne, where he found several officers and a display of guns. The trial court held his statement was made under the influence of fear and refused to allow it to be used against him and he was acquitted.

Indicted on Arson Charge.

Macomb, Ill., May 16.—Walter S. Farmer, a prominent merchant of Colchester, Ind., was Friday indicted on a charge that he is responsible for four fires which burned one-quarter of the business section of Colchester. Following the indictment Farmer furnished bonds signed by prominent business men of Colchester and bankers of Macomb.

Got at the root of the trouble. Rubbing an aching back may relieve it.

But it won't cure it. You must reach the root of it—the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right at it; reach the cause; relieve the pain. They cure, too, so Janesville people say.

Mrs. R. M. Wilson, of 202 Mineral Point Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "I had been suffering with my back for a number of years. I had constant pain in the loins and I felt so generally weak and run-down that I often felt that I could not keep up. I used liniments and other remedies, but did not help me, and finally, seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our papers, I sent to the drug store and procured a box and began using them. A few doses were sufficient to rid me of the pain and I continued using the remedy until entirely cured. My son found the same satisfaction in using them for bladder trouble as he has been entirely free from it since using Doan's Kidney Pills."

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry bark, bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable and safe and certain agent in restoring the system. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe cases of indigestion, dyspepsia, and all the ailments connected with the stomach and bowels. It is in the lingering hangover coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Dr. F. H. Pillsbury, M. D., of Bennett, Mead, College, Chicago, says of glycerine: "Glycerine is an excellent purgative. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in action upon the alimentary tract, stimulating the action of the liver, liberating or excreting the bile, and thus promoting the action of the stomach. It is a most efficient purgative (glycerine) and cures many cases of nervous indigestion and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood, curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scurfy swellings and all sorts of skin diseases.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for a booklet telling all about the nature and uses of this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

THIS town never before saw so many people buying varnish at one time as during the Chi-Namel Demonstration at McNamara's Store. The Demonstrator is an expert and shows Chi-Namel to be a most remarkable varnish. The average varnish turns white when exposed to moisture. Chi-Namel neither turns white nor loses any of its gloss when subjected to boiling water. It does not crumble or chip off when struck a heavy blow. Makes a nice surface for floors, tables and all kinds of wood work in a home.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

A popular comic weekly has taken out copyright on a hard-boiled antidote. It involves our old friend, the doughnut. Upon the solid circular meat of the doughnut is printed the words: "Good Crops, Natural Resources." In the little hole in the center—and this is a very generous doughnut without much blue-ink pouring through the middle—is printed the words: "Business Depression."
The caption of the trait ensemble is "Look at the Doughnut; Not at the Hole."

Here is a wholesome doughnut and a wholesome bit of advice. It is another way of expressing the old sentiment that every cloud has a silver lining. If you look, you can always see the silver.

If you will, you can always see the doughnut. It's the fellow who is always looking for the cloud, instead of its lining, and who is always observing the hole instead of the doughnut, who thinks life is not worth the living of it, and who advertises his gloom so successfully that you feel like a ground hog in the dead of winter when within seeing radius of his melancholy.

There's no money in pessimism.
Furthermore, there's no satisfaction in it. Who cares about the hole in the doughnut? The smaller it is the better. Who cares about the cloud, when there's a silver lining? It's the bright side of the which is attractive.
It's the bright side which wins.

As a matter of cold dollars and cents, it pays to cheer up. Who would you buy the most goods of,
the drummer who tells you things are looking up, or the drummer who tells you things are looking down? As a matter of personal popularity, it pays to be an optimist.

Who do you prefer as an associate,
the chap with the gladsome smile, or the fellow with the dyspeptic frown?
There is no choice. "The smile will always win."

Whatever hard times—so-called—we may have had, they have been to a large degree sympathetic. All of us have talked about lack of money until most of us have been scared to death to let loose of what few remaining dollars may have accumulated to our fortunate credit.

And yet, the country is just as rich as ever. Its natural resources are just as abundant in God-given bound-lessness. Its crops are just as full and profitable. Its industries are just as stable. Its money is just as sound; and there's just as much of it—somewhere.

When you get right down to brass
tacks, it is just as the comic weekly suggests so eloquently. The business depression is only the hole in the doughnut—and eighty millions of us have been needlessly studying the hole to see if it was possible to look through the hole without observing the doughnut. Meanwhile the doughnut itself has been just as tempting as it ever was, and even a little more so.

The best thing for all of us—now or hereafter—is to trade frowns for smiles; pessimism for optimism; to look at the doughnut and not at the hole.

Doughnuts and dyspepsies seldom agree, and so the lot-alone policy is usually adopted, but the problem which confronts the nation, just now, is how to account for the epidemic of dyspepsia, with no visible increase in the crop of doughnuts.

The panic of last October was a money panic, and about the only men who lost any sleep over it, at the time, was the bankers and financiers, who felt the pressure because directly interested. The rest of us looked on and laughed and joked about the new kinds of money, and said that the disturbance would soon blow over.

It did, so far as money was concerned, but about the time the banks assumed normal conditions the people were attacked with stage fright, and we cultivated the fright, and have been nursing the disease ever since.

There are some kinds of losses which represent the destruction of property, like the tornado, the earthquake, flood and fire, but aside from the San Francisco disaster, no unusual losses of the kind have occurred, and this was not sufficient in magnitude to disturb the whole country.

The shrinkage of values in stocks and bonds, and other securities, is of a different nature, for it belongs to the comparatively limited realm of speculation, and only affects the general public through loss of confidence.
This, however, may become a serious loss, as is the case at the present time.

There are also two sources of ravage, equally distinctive. Men make money by barter and trade in the industrial and commercial world, and the accumulation of this kind of wealth adds to the wealth of the nation.

But the new money comes from a different source entirely, and is contributed by nature's great storehouses, which were never more generous in distribution than today.

The products of the soil put into the people's coffers last year $7,500,- 000, and will duplicate that amount this year. This is new money that never saw the light of day before, and it is shared by so many people that it means prosperity, even when our eyes are glued to the hole in the doughnut.

Add to this great volume of new wealth the product of mines and forests and the grand total should cheer the heart of the most despondent, for this new money is more evenly distributed, and effects either directly or indirectly the life and comfort of every individual.

Some people enjoy poor health, and many people just now seem to find satisfaction in looking on the dark side of life. If the nation was suffering from famine, or from a scourge of contagion, there would be some excuse for feeling blue, but the promise of seedtime and harvest is being faithfully fulfilled, while the atmosphere is as clear and bracing as is possible to a May morning.

Stocks of merchandise, all over the land, have been reduced to the minimum, and buying orders have been so light that many industries have been obliged to run on short time, and with a light complement of employees, but these conditions can not long continue.
The factories have no surplus stock and when the merchants commence to buy every wheel will be turning to the hum of renewed prosperity.

The nation is indulging in a breathing spell, but respiration has not stopped, and when normal circulation is restored, evidences of renewed life will be vigorous and abundant.

The panic, so-called, is not a panic.
It is simply a period of liquidation
and adjustment to new conditions.
The machinery had not gone to smash,
but it was running loose and was in need of repair.

Much of it was worn out and needed to be replaced with modern and up-to-date equipment in keeping with advanced ideas and reform methods.

The rolling stock of railroads was better than the men who attempted to keep the wheels in motion, and this was true of many industries, controlled by corporate wealth.

But now conditions are being met and the demands of a quickened conscience satisfied. In the meantime nature, never in need of reform, has continued to unlock her storehouses, with generous hand, and new wealth
continues to roll into bless the people.

While we are watching the storm clouds will roll by, and in the sunlight of a new era will appear the dawn of a common sense prosperity
free from agitation and disturbance, because of the lessons taught.

"Look up, not down; look out, not in," and the hole in the doughnut will lose its attractive features.

CONSERVING NATURAL RE- SOURCES

At the meeting of state governors in Washington this week, which was called by President Roosevelt to consider some concerted action for conserving the natural resources of the country, many references were made to the system of state parks established in different states. The state park reservation proposition was warmly approved, and doubtless some states which have not taken any action looking to the preservation of picturesque trails for public pleasure grounds will now take the matter up.

MILK AND KINDNESS.

Think of it—

If you work at the dairy farm of Mrs. Adelle P. Howie you must say
"Good morning" to her cows.
Eleven years ago Mrs. Howie was a Milwaukee society woman. Now she is the acknowledged authority on Jersey cattle breeding in this country.

More than that.
She is on the staff of the Wisconsin Agricultural college as a lecturer, and students of dairy work and stock breeding come from all over the country to attend her lectures. Eleven years ago she was "afraid to look at a cow," as she puts it.

What new thing has this successful woman contributed to the science of cattle breeding? Chiefly this:
She employs kindness.

Now, you would scarcely suppose that the yield of a cow's milk could be doubled by kindness? Mrs. Howie has proved that to be true.

She says every stroke of petting, every word of love and every bit of appreciation and attention bestowed on a cow will come back to you in dollars and cents. "Put in affection with your scientific feeding and I promise it will repay you."

For instance:

Mrs. Howie coaxed and caressed twenty-two pounds and five ounces of butter out of Sadie La Pet, one of her favorites, in seven days. She sells calves for $300 apiece, and they are bespoken before they are born. And her cows take first prizes wherever they are shown.

Of course you must really love your cow if you want to double her yield of milk by kindness. Mrs. Howie is in love with her pretty creatures.

Isn't the woman's theory fine?

And it has its use.
You may become a brutal owner of a cow about being kind to all of God's creatures and it will never get under his skin. But show him that he is cheating himself out of dollars—that's another story.

And by analogy—

If it pays to be kind to a cow, will it not pay to be kind to a horse or a dog—or even a human being?

In Life and in Death.

Every will exert itself against a competitor, while life remains; but when death stops the competition, affection will applaud without restraint.—Portland.

Ready-to-Wear Garments

Up to date we have enjoyed a remarkably successful sale of ready-to-wear garments. We seem to have had just the proper styles, judging from the hundreds of ladies who looked over every stock in Janesville, and in many instances stocks in other cities before buying, and returned to THE BIG STORE enthusiastic over our garments.
We have in mind particularly our

SUITS

The time has come when we think it is wise business policy to reduce our stock of the ready-to-wearables. Prices talk and from now on we shall make strong price inducements on all Suits, Silk Coats, Covert Jackets, and Misses' and Children's Jackets.

We have about 85 beautiful Suits, finely tailored, latest creations—suits that would grace any department. Just the styles in suits you see on the street and wonder where they came from, being dressy but not flashy. Our present prices will surely interest you if you have a suit want. $10 to $30

MISSES' and CHILDREN'S JACKETS of which we show 150 desirable styles, we offer at exact cost and in many instances $1.50 to $8.00
at less than cost.....

The Silk Coats and Covert Jackets
are going at small prices. Now is the golden opportunity and you cannot afford to put off buying any longer. Without any doubt we show the best general assortment of garments, of styles that people want, of

PRINCIPAL RESIGNS SCHOOL POSITION

Head of the Broadhead Schools Declines
Not to Remain in That City
Another Year.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Broadhead, May 16.—Prof. F. A. Harrison has decided he will not remain in Broadhead as principal of the schools for another year, and the news is received with much regret by his many friends here. Mr. Harrison has been at the head of the schools in this city for the past five years and through his efforts the schools have reached a high standard. We are unable to announce Mr.
Harrison's intentions.

Marshall H. Pongra of the township of Sylvester died at his home on Wednesday at about four o'clock at the age of 89 years. He came to this city in 1816 and has ever since resided here. He held many offices of trust and was a member of the general assembly in 1871-72.

Mrs. Maud Vance is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Will Probst of Stoughton.

SALOON-KEEPERS WARNED BY CHIEF OF STATE LAWS

Question of Keeping Open on Sunday is Definitely Decided by Order Issued Today.

Numerous Complaints having been received by Chief of Police George Ampley during the past week that certain saloons were closed on Sunday and others open, despite stringent orders to keep all places of liquor refreshment closed, Chief of Police Ampley issued the following open letter to the saloonkeepers of the city:

To All Saloonkeepers:
I have had a number of complaints
and some of them came from saloon men themselves, that a number of saloonkeepers are disregarding the Sabbath closing. Now I wish to say that the law forbids your selling on Sunday and it is the order of this Mayor that all saloons are to keep from selling intoxicants on Sunday, and I shall see to it that saloon-keepers who violate this law shall be punished.

To Save Plumbing-Bills.

cleanse the outlet of bath tubs and wash stands at least once a week, as the accumulation of fat and hair in Stoughtonites, Paid Fines: John Tweed and Ole Olson came down from Stoughton yesterday and peacefully inflated balloons across the bar till they finally landed in the cooler. Mr. Olson had $25.00 on his person and granted good humorously at the small penalty of $4.00. Mr. Tweed was also well supplied with cash and paid a similar assessment without complaining. Cap. Collier, who neglected to keep his promise and return to make a money settlement with the court when conditionally released some time ago, pleaded in vain for a chance to earn his fine of $5 and costs and went to jail for twelve days.

WHEREABOUTS OF GIRL A MYSTERY

MAMIE HEMMENS LAST SEEN WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

RODE IN GRIFFIN'S HACK

That Day and Then Disappeared—Boy Is Under Arrest But Has Given Police No Clue.

Since Thursday the police have been conducting a quiet search for Mamie Hemmens, a seventeen-year-old girl, who was taken from the Sparta institution when an infant and adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Alva L. Hemmens, who reside at 155 Cherry street. Their inquiries in several quarters last evening, the arrest of an eighteen-year-old boy named Eddie Griffin, driver for a local hack line and son of Michael Griffin, who is employed at one of the local roundhouses, and the detention of a youth named Cannon, attracted general attention and the ill-fated veil of secrecy which, at the urgent request of the parties most concerned, had thus far been thrown over the investigation, was torn asunder.

MISSING GIRL'S DESCRIPTION.
Mamie Hemmens—17 years old; short and rather fleshy; weight 135 pounds; dark complexion. Wore a dark skirt with a checked waist; a blue hat ornamented with two blackbirds; and a brown coat. Last seen Wednesday afternoon, May 13.

The young woman, a student in the seventh grade, had been somewhat irregular in her attendance at school. She failed to put in an appearance there Wednesday morning and at noon her foster-parents had taken her to task on the score. They supposed that she was starting for the schoolhouse when she took an umbrella and went out into the rain shortly after the dinner hour.

Driven About in Hack.
Eddie Griffin had not the 3:37 afternoon train with his carriage and on the way back to the barn had invited a boy named Cannon to share his seat on the box. According to the story which Cannon told the officers and which Griffin, in a measure, corroborates, they came upon the Hemmens girl and a little five-year-old daughter of Mrs. Skelly who conducts the out-lug house near Smith's hotel, under the North River street viaduct. Griffin invited them to have a ride and they climbed into the vehicle. After they had driven north about six blocks, Griffin stopped the horses and after taking the little girl out of the carriage and placing her up on the box with Cannon, directed the latter to drive to Woodlawn avenue and climbed into the hack with the young woman. Cannon says that he drove west as directed, traversing Woodlawn avenue, Palm, and Ohio streets, and finally turning onto Pleasant street. He had driven perhaps an hour when Griffin opened the door and asked him to stop. As the latter climbed out and started to take the infant out of the box and put her back inside the carriage, the young woman leaped out of the door and asked Cannon if he did not want to get into the carriage with her. Cannon avers that he did not accept the invitation and that after the little child had been placed in the carriage and Griffin had again taken the reins, they drove to the high school, where Miss Hemmens and her charge disembarked and bade the boys good-bye. Both he and Griffin claim that this was the last they saw of the young woman. A chance wayfarer happened to see Griffin place the little girl on the box at the beginning of the trip, and the infant told Mrs. Skelly about riding in a hack with Mamie Hemmens. These things were reported to the police department and led to the unfolding of the episode.

Girl Had No Money.
This was the last seen of the Hemmens girl by any person with whom the police have come in contact.

So far as known she had no money on her person and could not have gotten far away from the city without assistance. Inquiries from the passenger train crews have failed to produce any clue and the search in places where the young woman might be kept in hiding has likewise been fruitless. One of Griffin's companions told the police today that the girl was in the habit of meeting at the depot a good looking passenger brakeman who comes through here every other day at 11:45 a. m. and is on the Chicago to Elroy run. Young Griffin is still behind the bars and doggedly clings to his story to the effect that he knows nothing more about the girl than he has already admitted. Naturally, there is some talk of foul play and the river but as yet there seems to be nothing on which to base such a hypothesis.

Harry Collins Benefited: Members of the Carpenters' Union are arranging a benefit dance for Harry Collins to be given at Assembly hall, Wednesday evening, May 27. Mr. Collins, who is 21 years of age, was run down by a train Easter night and lost his left foot. For a time it was feared that the injury might prove fatal.

Judgment for Photograph: In Judge Tallman's court yesterday John J. Ryan secured judgment in the sum of $30 against Emory and Walter Parks, for a photograph which they used in connection with their five-cent theatre on East Milwaukee street. It appears that they were to pay for the instrument in monthly installments of $3 but neglected to make the settlements after the first deposit.

He always has something of a practical interest to present and all men are urged to attend the meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building tomorrow afternoon. Something special in the line of speaking is expected. Let every man who attends bring a friend.

A WORTHLESS CHECK MADE GOOD AT LAST

Local Merchant Cashed One for Chicago Youth About a Year Ago—A Bogus Bank.

About a year ago a prominent merchant cashed a check on a bank which had no existence, for a glided Chicago youth, whose father he knew. The check, of course, was returned through the local bank and the merchant sent it to the boy's father to redeem. Today the money was forwarded and with a letter from the sorrowful father, who says that he has spent thus far twenty-five thousand dollars in keeping his son out of prison and that on the Jacksonville trip when he presented the check in question the boy spent thirteen hundred dollars alone.

Benefit Ball.
The Carpenters' Union No. 836 will give a benefit dance for Harry Collins next Wednesday, May 20th, in the Assembly hall. This is for a worthy cause and it is hoped all his friends will respond liberally. It will be remembered that Mr. Collins had his foot taken off about a month ago.

BURGLAR ENTERED W. W. WATT'S HOUSE

Ransacked the Entire Lower Floor But Only Took Pocket Book With Small Sum of Money.

Sometime after two o'clock this morning a bold burglar entered the residence of Alderman W. W. Watt at the corner of East street and south second and after thoroughly ransacking the lower floor of the house made good his escape with a pocket book of Mrs. Watt containing a small sum of money. Mr. Watt returned from the office at two and found nothing disturbed when he reached his residence so the thief must have made his entrance and investigations after that hour. A large pane of glass facing East street on the north side was cut out with a knife or some sharp instrument and set aside on the grass outside leading against the house. The fact that the electric light on the corner burns all night gave the man light to work by and made his entrance more daring. The thief evidently took his time in making his search as he pulled open several drawers, taking the silver table service from its receptacle and laying a pair of opera glasses on the table. He found the pocket book in a coat pocket in a closet of the library and appropriated that, but nothing else is missing. The loss was not discovered until this morning, when the family arose. A suspicious character was seen about the corner early last evening and a good description of him has been given to the police. Mr. Watt also saw a man standing close up to the window of Mrs. Valentine's flat, in the Woods apartment about two, as he was going home and when the man saw Mr. Watt looking at him he walked very quickly away across the Court street bridge.

JOHN YOUNG MAKES EXHIBIT OF PEARLS

Largest Buyer of the Wisconsin Product at Hotel Myers This Afternoon.

John Young, the veteran Wisconsin pearl man, and his two daughters Florence and Anna, showed to persons interested in the Wisconsin product, as fine an exhibition of American pearls as one would wish to see. Mr. Young is a pioneer in the pearl buying business and for the past twenty-one years has been one of the largest and most active purchasers of the Wisconsin product. He recently made an offer of $50,000 for a perfect pearl and thus far no one has come to claim the reward. This pearl must weigh one hundred and three grains and a half and must be perfect in every way. It can be of the button or pearl shape. Mr. Young and his daughters had with them the finest collection of American pearls that have ever been seen in Janesville. Mr. Young's purchases during the time he has been in business have been the most extensive of any of the many who have found the Wisconsin and fresh water pearls a profitable venture.

Amos Rehberg & Co.

"Good morning," he said, his hat in his hand. "Are you beginning work so early?" and he looked at the papers carried under her arm.

"Yes," she said, "I have a new idea about that last chapter you wrote." "I'm sorry I can't be with you this morning," he answered, and she passed into the house. She wore a white frock and a matty little blue apron, and I must admit looked very fresh and dainty, but Wilfred's tone was so cool and conventional that I mentally freed him again from my accusation that he was in the midst of a warm flirtation, though you will agree with me that appearances had been very much against him.

But that evening when he and I were having our alkyl bedroom colloquy I was obliged to admit that Vincent, considering his methods, had accomplished a great deal. With some embarrassment he related to me the tale of his horseback ride in the morning, and I must say it completely unsettled my belief in the discovery I had made as to the identity of the real Honorable Agatha Wickoff. Neither Vincent nor I knew what to make of it.

"Do you know, Arch," he said, sitting up and down my room, "I've been through a horrid experience today? It was an awful shock to me, and a lesson."

"I'm glad it was a lesson," said I. There are so few lessons in Vincent's life.

"Yes," he said, "I felt like a beastly cad. And I don't see what I've done to deserve it. Of course, I've done her hand a couple of times."

"That bad habit of yours again," I murmured. "And I've looked at her a lot—who's got the most soul-moving eyes you know."

I didn't know, but I nodded. The boy was very much in earnest.

"But I never thought," he went on—"I never thought she—she—" He stopped and the words seemed to stick in his throat.

"Great heaven, man," I cried in my impatience, "get it out. What didn't you think she'd do?"

"I never thought she'd really care for me," he muttered, shamefacedly, and turned his back on me.

"What do you mean?" I demanded, impatiently. He is most exasperating.

"Why, this," he ceased his restless walk and stood on the hearth rug, facing me. "We'd been out about an hour this morning, Agatha Fifth and I, and we'd been getting up into the hilly country, when suddenly we came out of the woods and saw below us the grandest stretch of country you can imagine."

Here he broke off and went into a rhapsody over the sky-line and the grazing sheep, and said something about Utopia and Eden and other things like that, until he got through at last and came to the interesting part. "They can't help going on like that, those artist fellows, and Vincent never loses an opportunity to get in a bit of description."

"Well," he continued, "I was just enjoying that view and saying nothing, when she stopped switching the tops off the harebells with her crop and, turning those warty hazel eyes of hers on me, she said in a low voice, as if what she said didn't matter at all, 'I love you!'"

"What!" I shouted. "She didn't?" "She did," asserted Vincent ruefully, but with firmness—"She did. Just like that, out of a clear sky. Simply folded her hands and looked at me and told me she loved me."

"Angels and ministers of grace, defend us!" I ejaculated. Nothing else seemed adequate. "What under the sun did you do?"

"Why, I told her simply that I didn't love her, and couldn't marry her, and I was very sorry, but I thought we'd better get on our horses and go home."

"Quite right, if you don't really care," I said, "but oh, Vincent!" as a thought struck me, "just think, she might have been the Honorable Agatha—the real and only Honorable!"

"She was!" said Vincent.

I was speechless. This was the end of it, then. I saw the millions taking unto themselves wings, and my pen of milk spilled. The real Honorable Agatha had been discovered, the secret was out, but who had avowed herself as loving Vincent and he had spurned her. After such a performance there was no chance for either of us.

"How do you know she was?" I asked, weakly.

"She told me so herself," he answered.

"But after you refused her, I suppose?"

"Of course," said Vincent, resignedly.

"But, Wilfred, my boy," I cried, springing up, and knocking off my glasses in my excitement, "couldn't you change your mind, couldn't you fix it up? If she really cared I should think you could!"

Though this event would have proved the deathblow to my own hopes, still my interest in Vincent's welfare was so genuine that I couldn't help this anxious expostulation. But again he misunderstood.

"You don't mean that, I know, Arch," he said, "Of course I wouldn't marry the girl when I really don't care for her. But wasn't it the deuce of a position to be in?"

"Oh, Wilfred, Wilfred!" I mourned, "twenty millions right in your grasp, and you threw them away. I wish I'd had your chance. Your poor father, how disappointed he'd be if he knew."

"I'd be more disappointed in me if I had changed my mind and said I would marry her just for the sake of the money," said the young man, crossly, and turning on his heel he left the room. Vincent's getting more quick tempered every day lately, and he used to be so good natured. I'm sure it was only natural and very disinterested in me to bewail for him the result of the unfortunate affair that morning.

CHAPTER IV.

For some days after that I was in a quandary. Here, in the face of my discovery in the library, was Vincent's positive information that Agatha Fifth was the heiress. Reluctantly I determined that the likeness between Agatha Sixth and the picture of the heiress was accidental, and began to devote myself to the unfortunate Agatha Fifth. She seemed much inclined to discourage me, but I persevered and we soon became great friends. I found she was only 18, and drew my own conclusions from this fact. At 18 one's convictions are never very deep-rooted, neither are one's love affairs, and I thought it likely that the girl would soon forget her ill-prospered attachment for Vincent's handsome face, and might begin to think of someone else. Surely this was a very natural belief. So the first two weeks of our stay at the castle sped by and I saw to my satisfaction that I was gaining ground with the Honorable Agatha every day, while poor Vincent wasted his time flirting with each Agatha in turn (he had taken up Agatha Sixth since my desertion) or in assisting Miss Marsh to write up a lot of old dead barons who were much better left to a decent and dignified obscurity.

One day, toward the close of the two weeks, I met Vincent hurrying through the hall toward the stairs. He had on an old velvet coat covered with paint daubs, his luncheon basket was over his shoulder, and I guessed that he was going on one of his sketching tours in search of fresh woods and pastures new.

"Where are you going, Wilfred?" I asked, as he stopped, "and where's Agatha Sixth?" She usually accompanied him on his sketching expeditions.

"Painting," he replied, concealingly, ignoring my second question; "and where may you be going?"

"For a walk with Agatha Fifth," I answered, smiling at him—a little pityingly, perhaps. He had lost such a chance!

Vincent chuckled and his eyes looked wicked. "Wish you luck, Arch," he said. "I've been watching your charitable efforts to cut me out and be a father to my little friend, Agatha Fifth, with great admiration—but I forgot to tell you—she, lowered his voice, for we could see Agatha Second on the veranda talking to Agatha Fifth—I forgot to tell you that what Agatha Fifth told me isn't true!"

"Isn't true?" I repeated in consternation.

"No," he confessed to me about a week ago that she only said she was the real Honorable Agatha to make me marry her. She thought, the foolish little girl, that she only had to tell me she was the heiress to make me love her. And she said she was sorry and wouldn't do it again and cried like a child, and I forgave her and comforted her. She'll get over it all right!" and he laughed hilariously the young rascal ran upstairs.

I was really vexed with Wilfred about this. I thought it was very unkind of him to keep me in the dark for so long about Agatha Fifth's confession.

Restless Nervous

Do you get up in the morning tired, languid, and frequently with headache almost unbearable? You have been unable to rest or sleep. It is nervous exhaustion, and affects the heart, lungs, stomach and all the organs that depend upon the nerves for motive power. What you need is Dr. Miles' Nervine to restore nervous energy and give new life to the organs.

"For years I have been very nervous, suffering terribly with headache. I had always gone to the doctor, and was about to go one day to try him for the last time, when a friend advised me to try Dr. Miles' Nervine. I purchased a bottle and the results were so satisfactory I have been taking it ever since. It has helped me wonderfully. Dr. Miles' Nervine and Liver Pills have done lots of good for me. When I get to feeling nervous now, I go for the Nervine bottle and I am so thankful I have something to help me without a doctor bill."

Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

What a lot of time I'd been wasting! I resolved that I would return to Agatha Sixth at the first opportunity, and I felt glad, even justified, that I had not told him about that album which had betrayed the secret to me. At this moment Agatha Second appeared in the doorway. "Hello, Mr. Torbune," she said, "where's Lord Wilfred?" "He went upstairs," I said; "I don't know for what." I could hear him in the distance singing at the top of his lusty young voice—"Gentlemen rankers all are welcome—" till an unspitting shout from Agatha Second drowned the song completely. "O-h-h, Priddy," shrieked the young lady, with a lung power that equaled Vincent's.

I shivered with indignation at the liberty. "Freddy?" I asked.

At the third shout he heard her and stopped singing to read the air with an answering cry.

"Fug goodness' sake, what are you so long about?" she called. "Do hurry up!"

"Coming!" roared Vincent, clattering down the two flights of stairs like a wild horse, and I hurried out to join Agatha Fifth, my hands over my ears. Young people are so noisy nowadays.

Several evenings later Agatha Fourth had arranged to give a progressive dinner party. She was to be the hostess and the rest of us were her guests. It was an evening-dress affair, and I must say as we sat down to dinner I never saw a prettier group of girls.

Then the fun began. Agatha Fourth's idea in having a progressive dinner party was for each of the girls to move up one place with each course so that they could all have turns sitting by us. It was delightful; really, I don't know that I ever attended a jollier dinner party.

Quitting from the Mad Tea Party in "Alice in Wonderland," and the girls laughed at every single thing he said. Mrs. Armstrong, I am ashamed to say, was not present; her head ached and she had dined in her room. I am not naturally noisy or riotous, but the laughter and jokes of those six girls were so infectious that I was obliged to join in with them. Vincent sat at one end of the table and I at the other, with three girls on each side of us. The secretary, of course, was not present.

Agatha Fourth had decorated the table with some of the yellow roses and wild fern that grew near the castle. Agatha Sixth and I had found them many times in our wanderings and, by the way, she was looking especially lovely that evening. The girls all wore shimmering white gowns, similar in design, with silver ornaments, but Agatha Sixth's gown was cream-color with ornaments of gold, and well did it become her dark beauty.

We had reached the very end of the dinner, and had just made the last change of places, which left me with my favorite Agatha Sixth on my right and Agatha Third on my left.

Suddenly, as the talk died down and a certain contented silence fell upon us, Vincent rose to his feet, and bowing to us formally, began to speak:

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, making the last word pointedly singular, while the girls all laughed, "I think you are all with me when I propose a vote of thanks to—to—our hostess."

"I felt that he had nearly said 'Agatha Fourth!'"—our hostess, for giving us so delightful an entertainment. He bowed to Agatha Fourth and went on:

"If all progressive tea parties are termed mad I hope I may attend many such. But as I look around me, gentlemen and ladies fair, across the red glow of the candle that turns the roses to redder gold, and as I gaze upon the youth and beauty here assembled, the like of which I have never before looked upon"—he made a courtly inclination of his head that included every maid at the table, and they all sighed—I heard them—"as I look upon this noble room, this exquisite table, and think of the graciousness of such hospitality, I am inspired to propose a toast in which I feel confident you will all join me." At this climax Vincent raised his glass above his head.

"To the real Agatha!" he cried—"to the real Honorable Agatha!"

There was an instant of dead silence, and then to my surprise my left-hand neighbor, Agatha Third, rose to her feet, and with quivering lips, started to say something. But she had hardly time to rise before the other five girls sprang to their feet, and raising their glasses, Agatha Third with the rest, they cried with one voice: "To the Honorable Agatha!" and although it seemed to me that Agatha Third had very nearly let the cat out of the bag by rising, as if to acknowledge the courtesy, yet by the promptness of the other girls the day was partially relieved, and Vincent and I were still somewhat at a loss as to the identity of our fair and wealthy hostess.

I asked Vincent afterward what he made of Agatha Third's behavior.

"It looked to me," said that young person, "as if those girls had themselves so much in command that they would never betray the secret they're guarding, no matter what you did."

"But didn't you see Agatha Third get up before the others did?" I said, excitedly. "She gave herself away. I tell you, Wilfred, she's the real honorable, without a doubt. There can be no two ways about it!"

He continued.

Number of Heathens.

In the world's religions those who are usually termed heathen have a larger place numerically than all the other religious divisions. Mohammedans, Buddhists, Brahmins and all other non-Christians except the Jews number together about 1,400,000,000, leaving but about 418,000,000 to be divided among the Roman Catholics, Protestants of all denominations, Armenians, Greek, and Abyssinian Catholics and Jews.

MRS. METSKER ACQUITTED

WOMAN WHO KILLED CARLETON MORGAN IS SET FREE.

Remarkable Demonstration in Court-room at Cassopolis, Mich., When Verdict Is Announced.

Cassopolis, Mich., May 16.—The acquittal of Mrs. Christina Metsker of South Bend, Ind., of the charge of murdering Carleton Morgan of South Bend, at three o'clock on the morning of April 10 outside the home of Mrs. Mae Green in this city, was the occasion of an unprecedented demonstration in court last Friday.

Deaf to warnings and threats of arrest, the crowd cheered and clapped hands and sang. Several hundred people escorted Mrs. Metsker to the jail, where she picked up her personal effects, and from there to the depot where she took a train to South Bend. Mrs. Metsker's husband had already left for home on an afternoon train.

During the trial Mrs. Metsker testified that the shooting of Morgan was an accident. She said that she followed her husband and Morgan to Cassopolis upon discovering a letter signed "The Merry Widow" making an appointment for her husband to join a party at Mrs. Green's. She carried the revolver, she said, only for self-protection. The fatal shot was fired, she said, accidentally in the struggle that ensued when her husband, encountering her as he emerged from Mrs. Green's home with Morgan, struggled with her for possession of the revolver.

SENATE PASSES ALDRICH BILL.

Substitutes It for Vreeland Measure Adopted by House.

Washington, May 16.—The Vreeland currency bill, which was passed by the house Thursday, was delivered to the senate Friday and at once sent to the committee on finance. Senator Aldrich promptly made a report from the committee substituting the Aldrich bill in an amended form for the house measure and in that form it was passed by the senate. This action threw the bill into conference, the house refusing to accept it, and an effort will be made to reach an agreement at an early day.

The work of cleaning up legislation in the house preparatory to adjournment May 23, proceeded at a rapid pace. Both the military academy appropriation bill and the omnibus public building bill were passed, leaving of the supply bill only the general deficiency bill to be considered. In addition $25 private pension bills were put through.

A bitter and sensational attack on former Speaker Kefauver of Ohio by his colleague, Gen. Sherwood, was a feature of the day's proceedings.

Ten O'clock Lines.

Certain old boundary lines agreed upon in treaties with the Indians are known as "ten o'clock lines," because they were laid out with the aid of the sun's shadow falling from a given object at ten o'clock in the morning. The line was always an extension of the line of the shadow at that hour. There is a line in Indiana bearing the above title.

will aid you in so doing.

—REMEMBER—

We do not claim to have the very cheapest Carriage or Go-Cart in the market. We do not want them, neither do you, for they are dear at any price—dear even if given to you; they are so uncomfortable, poorly constructed and hard to manage; they are liable to make nervous and physical wrecks of both mother and child.

NEWS FORECAST OF THE COMING WEEK

Many Conventions of All Kinds Will be Held During the Coming Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., May 16.—The coming week will be a week of conventions that will include political, religious, educational and industrial gatherings of national interest and importance. The political conventions will make the foremost bid for public attention. These will be confined to the democratic state conventions, as the last of the republican conventions to select delegates to Chicago has now been held.

Democrats will meet in state convention in Michigan, South Carolina, Missouri, Pennsylvania, California and Washington. Alabama will hold a state primary to select delegates to the national convention and also candidates for several state offices, and in Florida a general primary will be held.

William J. Bryan is expected to be endorsed for the Presidential nomination by nearly all of the state conventions, the only doubt being in the cases of Washington, Michigan and Pennsylvania. Some of the leaders in Pennsylvania are opposed to instruction, and in Michigan and Washington the Bryan opposition has made sudden headway to render the result somewhat uncertain, though the supporters of the Nebraska man believe they will get both states. There has been considerable Johnson talk in Alabama recently, but this state also is placed in the Bryan column.

Prohibitionists will meet in Indiana, New Jersey and several other states during the week.

The gathering of the week that will attract public attention, aside from the political conventions, will be the annual meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers in New York city, the meeting of the Interstate Cotton Seed Crushers' Association in Louisville, the American Cotton Manufacturers' association in Richmond, the fourteenth annual session of the Lake Mohawk Conference on International Arbitration, the third educational convention of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in Atlanta, the Baptist anniversary at Oklahoma City, the Supreme Council meeting of the Royal Arcanum at Chicago, the Presbyterian General Assembly at Kansas City and the Southern Presbyterian General Assembly at Greensboro, N. C.

The Atlantic battleship fleet will leave San Francisco for the north on Monday and later in the week it will begin a series of visits to Puget Sound ports.

Other events of public interest will be the reassembling of the French parliament, the concentration of Bishop Reese at Savannah, and the annual regatta of the American Rowing association at Philadelphia.

WE CAN SAVE YOU $20 to $30 On a Sewing Machine

Here is the point in buying sewing machines today. All patent rights on sewing machines have expired and now anyone can make a machine using all the patents and sell them at a reasonable figure. It was the patent that brought up the prices of machines.

We will sell the Eldredge at $18.50

This is not a cheap machine. It embodies all the late and important improvements. It is of heavy massive cabinet with golden oak finish. It is guaranteed by the makers for five years, and we guarantee it to you. It has automatic lift disk tension, positive take up, automatic tension release—in fact every feature embodied in the machines which were patented and were selling for two and three times the cost.

Out of town people write for further information, or call and see these machines when in Janesville.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Pittsburg, Pa., May 16.—National Bank Examiner Folds made another information against William Montgomery, the former cashier of the Allegheny National bank this afternoon and charged him with abstracting from the bank securities valued at $125,000. Montgomery is at liberty on bail for the embezzlement of $100,000.

A Hopeless Case.

"A great big, able-bodied man like you ought to be ashamed to ask a stranger for money," said the well-to-do citizen. "I know I ought," answered Maudering Mike. "But, mister, I'm jes' naturally too kindhearted to tap 'em on de head and take it away from 'em."—Sketch.

Bride's Playthings Burned.

The burning of the bride's playthings is part of the wedding ceremony in Japan. The bride lights a torch, which she hands to the bridegroom, who with it lights a fire in which the toys are destroyed.
